_____ 1. When someone does something wrong, they should apologize.

_____ 2. Sometimes an apology is not enough to correct a mistake or wrongdoing.

_____ 3. After a certain amount of time, people should just let things go and move on.

_____ 4. Each generation is indebted to those who came before them.

_____ 5. A person should be fairly compensated for their labor and sacrifices.

_____ 6. Discrimination can impact generations of people, making it hard to get ahead.

_____ 7. A nation's government is responsible for the general welfare of its citizens.

_____ 8. The government should issue or pay reparations for the people it has treated unfairly.

_____ 9. Once a person knows better, it is easier to do better.

_____ 10. Compensation or reparations don't have to be monetary. There are other ways to repair wrongdoings.

_____ 11. Reparations aren't a practical solution to wrongdoing.

Defend–Challenge–Qualify: What is your opinion on reparations? Are they owed and if so to whom? What should reparations look like? Whose responsibility are they?
