

The 1619 Project Education Network

Pedagogical Best Practices Resource Sharing

We know that students engaging with our curriculum connected to The 1619 Project will be further developing as informed and empathetic individuals. We also know that there may be elements of productive challenge and discomfort as we confront difficult subject matter and history. Preparing students to engage meaningfully with this work begins well before the first day of the lesson. This resource, which we will build collaboratively will serve as a reference point for how we can implement equitable policies and systems, culturally responsive teaching practice, social emotional learning, and intentional curriculum year-round to ensure student safety and success.
