Do Now

Someone comes and says to you, “Racism ended when slavery ended. Racism is a thing of the past.” How might you respond to this person?

I would respond to that person by telling them that they’re incorrect and racism still exists today because some people are still denied certain things because of their race.

Negro voters... "instituted a public school system in a realm where public schools had been unknown. They opened the ballot box and jury box to thousands of white men who had been debarred from them by a lack of earthly possessions. They introduced home rule in the south. They abolished the whipping post, and branding iron, the stocks and other barbarous forms of punishment which had up to that time prevailed. They reduced capital felonies from about twenty to two or three. In an age of extravagance they were extravagant in the sums appropriated for public works. In all that time, no man's rights were invaded under the forms of law."

The South, for the first time in the history of this country, began to resemble a democracy, with black Americans elected to local, state and federal offices. Some 16 black men served in Congress — including Hiram Revels of Mississippi, who became the first black man elected to the Senate.

Explain why you matched Excerpt D with the selected image:

Excerpt D matches with picture because black men were elected to congress.
Excerpt E

Faced with this unrest, the federal government decided that black people were the cause of the problem and that for unity's sake, it would leave the white South to its own devices. In 1877, President Rutherford B. Hayes, in order to secure a compromise with Southern Democrats that would grant him the presidency in a contested election, agreed to pull federal troops from the South. With the troops gone, white Southerners quickly went about eradicating the gains of Reconstruction. The systemic white suppression of black life was so severe that this period between the 1880s and the 1920 and '30s became known as the Great Nadir, or the second slavery. Democracy would not return to the South for nearly a century.

Slide 4 - Slide 6: End of Chattel Slavery

1. What do you think freed Black people did immediately after learning of their freedom?

   How Black people earned their freedom, I think they immediately started looking for work.

2. What challenges might freed Black people have faced right after emancipation?

   Challenges freed Black people faced after emancipation was surviving on their own because finding work was hard, they had families to care for and they had to be careful of violence from others.

Slide 7-Slide 11: Abolishment of Slavery in the West Indies

3. Summarize: How free were Black people in the West Indies by 1865? Explain.

   In the West Indies by 1865, Black people had gained some freedom because they were able to avoid rebellions that were successful, the British freed them and required them to work 4-6 months before being free.

Slide 12-14: What was Reconstruction? (Time Period and Definition)

4. If you could make an amendment to the "laws" of your school or your house, what would it be and why? (Answer in a complete sentence!) Choose 1 or 2.

Slide 15-Slide 22: Reconstruction or Backlash?

Directions: As you examine slides 15-21, closely read about the historical moments that took place during the Reconstruction period and answer whether or not the moment is an example of "Reconstruction" or "Backlash" and explain why.

Slide 16: "Reconstruction" or "Backlash" - Explain why.

Reconstruction because black people gained new rights to help them.
Slide 17: “Reconstruction” or “Backlash” and explain why.

Slide 17 is Reconstruction because as time passed the illiteracy of black children decreased.

Slide 18: “Reconstruction” or “Backlash” and explain why.

Slide 18 is Reconstruction because the number of black kids who are able to read and write increases over the years.

Slide 19: “Reconstruction” or “Backlash” and explain why.

Slide 19 is Reconstruction because black people made advancements, even being elected to Congress positions.

Slide 20: “Reconstruction” or “Backlash” and explain why.

Slide 20 is Reconstruction because black people were able to go on and find and have families.

Slide 21: “Reconstruction” or “Backlash” and explain why.

Slide 21 is Reconstruction because black people had made their own communities and they were independent.

Summarize: What are four ways Black people exercised freedom during Reconstruction? Which do you think is the most important and why?

Black people exercised freedom during Reconstruction by forming their own communities, with families, being elected to Congress positions, and black people learning to read and write. Black people forming their own communities seems the most important because having their own communities would allow black people to be independent.

Someone comes and says to you, "Racism ended when slavery ended. Racism is a thing of the past." How might you respond to this person?

I would say racism did not end there and is very much still a thing because when slavery ended they were still being treated worse, like having higher rent, and lynchings during the reconstruction.

Essential Question: What was the Reconstruction period? What were some of the successes and challenges of the Reconstruction period?

Do Now

Someone comes and says to you, “Racism ended when slavery ended. Racism is a thing of the past.” How might you respond to this person?

You are a motion, you can never end an idea or logic once its instilled. Racism has ended, and discrimination always exist even in the weakest form. Slavery was directly caused by racism so it stays with us.

<td>It was only the other part of the laboring class, the black folk, who connected knowledge with power; who believed that education was the stepping-stone to wealth and respect, and that wealth, without education, was crippled. Perhaps the very fact that so many of them had seen the wealthy slaveholders at close range, and knew the extent of ignorance and inefficiency among them, led to that extraordinary mass demand on the part of the black laboring class for education. And it was this demand that was the effective force for the establishment of the public school in the South on a permanent basis, for all people and all classes.</td>

Negro voters... "instituted a public school system in a realm where public schools had been unknown. They opened the ballot box and jury box to thousands of white men who had been debarred from them by a lack of earthly possessions. They introduced home rule in the south. They abolished the whipping post, and branding iron, the stocks and other barbarous forms of punishment which had up to that time prevailed. They reduced capital felonies from about twenty to two or three. In an age of extravagance they were extravagant in the sums appropriated for public works. In all that time, no man's rights were invaded under the forms of law."

<td>Faced with this unrest, the federal government decided that black people were the cause of the problem and that for unity's sake, it would leave the white South to its own devices. In 1877, President Rutherford B. Hayes, in order to secure a compromise with Southern Democrats that would grant him the presidency in a contested election, agreed to pull federal troops from the South. With the troops gone, white Southerners quickly went about eradicating the gains of Reconstruction. The systemic white suppression of black life was so severe that this period between the 1880s and the 1920 and '30s became known as the Great Nadir, or the second slavery. Democracy would not return to the South for nearly a century.</td>
