

- The first amendment is somewhat healthy in our digital world because, we can use it to make changes to the world.

The first amendment is somewhat healthy in our digital world but, some of our rights were used by the government which made us see that some of rights were taken away.

The first amendment is somewhat healthy in our digital world so we can find ways to make our digital world healthy.

Claim ↓

• The first amendment is somewhat healthy in our digital world, because some things happen on the Internet even though there is monitoring.

The First Amendment is somewhat healthy in our digital world, because people can be good and non-toxic on the internet and the media.

The First Amendment is somewhat healthy in our digital world, but people can be disrespectful and creepy towards people and it can create conflict.

The First Amendment is somewhat healthy in our digital world, so we meaning the community should try to improve and control our actions so that we can make it better.

---

The First amendment is somewhat healthy in our digital world, because something happens on the internet even though there is monitoring.

The First Amendment is mostly healthy in our digital world, because we are able to communicate with others and share our opinions.

The First Amendment is mostly healthy in our digital world, but AI is taking away some freedoms and causing minor problems.

The First Amendment is mostly healthy in our digital world, so while there are some improvements to be made, people are still able to use their rights.

The First Amendment is somewhat healthy in our digital world, because information spreads farther and faster.

The First Amendment is somewhat healthy in our digital world, but censorship and surveillance are getting easier.

The First Amendment is somewhat healthy, in our digital world, so people are trying to exercise their rights.

